Present Petition On Tannery Odor To Council Sept. 12

Aurora-A determination to this time solve the problem of the tannery odor in Aurora is evident throughout the town as preparations are made for the meeting between council and the committee sponsoring the petition requesting action to eliminate the smell next Monday evening. Requested to attend the meeting are Dr. Berry of the department of health, representa-

Ttives of the Collis Leather Company, and Mr. Redfern, town engineer.

This determination is to be seen in all quarters. Solidly behind the committee's petition are the tannery and the people of Aurora, The latter has been as one in their desire to see the problem licked once and for all. Council, too, shares the desire to see the problem attacked and

SERVING NEWMARKET,

Aurora - The opening day of school on Tuesday proved to be a tedious one for teachers, parents and children as a jammed public school saw 375 pupils registered for the year. Of these, 50 were beginners.

Unable to accommodate the influx, only children who will be six years old by the end of October can be accepted in the first grade at present. As it was, a number of pupils and parents were turned away for lack of room.

public schools this week saw the highest attendance on record with 721 pupils at the three schools. Last week the new registration had been estimated at 706 but more opening registrations were made. The number of grade one pupils this year is much higher than usual.

Supervising principal H. A. Jackson said yesterday, "The parents of school children have co-operated wonderfully about the transfers of students from the east side of town to west side schools."

Attendance at the St. John's school is 79 this year with seven more pupils than last year.

First year high school students are numbered exceptionally high this year. There are 151 students in grade nine. Total attendance at the high school is 375, about the same as the year before.

A system of drainage ditches marsh westward to the Holland River was put in by East Gwillimbury this year. The fire area is concentrated between two east-west ditches, the Traviss and Nelson ditches and between Second St. and Old Yonge St.

The ditches have enough water to make excellent fire guards. Last week fire experts from the provincial department of Lands and Forests went into the fire area. Pumping equipment belonging to W. J. Smith, Toronto, has been used to control the fire. The land which is partly covered by bush and partly marsh land has a top surface of muck and peat moss. An area of over 700 acres has been completely burned of trees and bushes and fire has gone down 18 inches into the ground.

Damage to the soil in the marsh area, located at the northern part of the fire section cannot be judged yet. Ground fire has burned over a shallow top layer of the rich earth in most places but there is a possibility that it could burn deeper to the clay subsoil. "IS A FARMER LESS THAN HIS ANIMALS?"

Good farmers never neglect the well-being of their farm animals, but sometimes put up with conditions which should be changed to lessen their own work, and to improve farm production for greater earnings.

Farm Improvements cost money-true, but there are Farm Improvement Loans designed to take care of these in a manner that's easy on farmers. Such loans are made in amounts up to $3,000. If you can use one, by all means talk the matter over, soon, with the manager of our nearest branch.

Learning to Work With Copper and Brass

IN Ontario the wheels of industry turn for the benefit of every single one of L us. Our lathes, dynamos, drill presses, farm combines, tractors, business machines, etc. are producing goods and services which earn dollars. These dollars provide food, clothing, medical care and other necessities which contribute to our security and high standard of living. Every single one of us, therefore, has a very personal interest in the flow of a steady supply of trained workers to industrial plants. These workers will operate machines which are important to our way of life.

We should appreciate, then, the co-operative efforts of government, industry and labour in the field of employee training. In schools and in factories our workers, young and old, are given the opportunity to develop new and specific skills in every field of business and industrial activity. For instance, every effort on the part of workers to become proficient in the art of shaping and moulding copper and bruss, will mean greater industrial progress-will help to make Ontario a finer place in which to live and work.

Peges from the Editor's Notebook

We have always enjoyed a visit to the Exhibition Art Gallery but this year, the gallery presented one of the poorest shows we can remember ever seeing. There were individual works which were enjoyable but they were the exception and their small number was not enough to encourage a happier impression of the "101 Famous Masterpieces."

It is no compliment to Mr. Fred Hagan whose lithographs and water colors were displayed at the Horticultural show and exhibition, nor to members of the Newmarket Arts club whose work has been shown in the club's exhibitions, to say that Newmarket has had better showings in its own town hall than that of the Exhibition Art Gallery this year.

We attribute the fault to the policy which directed the selection of works to be shown at the gallery. According to the program introduction, entitled "Which Do You Like," the collection was chosen to present the widest contrast between old and new, conventional and otherwise. The visitor was invited to re-examine his values by comparison. The forward observes:

"New pictures often cause heated arguments among the best trained critics. On the other hand, older pictures often hold affection simply through habit . . . Like old shoes, they are almost like part of one's self." And then, somewhat sententiously, the forward continues: "But the day has to come when the most beloved old shoe must be re-examined for value."

Well, old shoes have to be replaced, we grant, but the Exhibition seems hardly the place for it, but if the Exhibition is determined that it be done then and there, at least give us a decent choice. One should leave a gallery with a feeling of excitement, of having been stimulated by the artists' works. We left feeling the time might have been better spent watching the grandstand performance. We can think of nothing worse to say of it.

We suppose much of our disappointment in the art gallery came from its comparison with the generally high level of interest and entertainment presented by the other exhibits. What we saw in the government building and the manufacturers' building was so engrossing that we could have spent another day in those two alone. If the fair has a fault, it is size. It is impossible to see all there is to see in a day, even two days. We spent a Saturday afternoon and evening there and our enjoyment of what we did see is somewhat tempered by the very great deal we missed.

We did the horticultural building thoroughly however and it remains a favorite. The displays were excellent despite the handicap of season and drought that the exhibitors had to contend with. In the centre of the building there is a pool with a very presentable young lady carved in stone pouring a stream of water from a jug she holds on her shoulder. There was quite a crowd around her. The floor of the pool was littered with pennies and silver. As we watched most newcomers added their small change to the collection. No one seemed to know why—they just looked, reached into their pockets, and tossed—with generally a sheepish smile towards their neighbors.

The works department must reap quite a harvest every night when they clean the pool. We were tempted to climb in then and there.

Newmarket Needn't Become 'Just Another Town'

The Need

A hockey championship put Newmarket on the map before the war. Newmarket is still remembered by some as a "hockey town" although a quit claim to that title has been filed years past. What recent publicity Newmarket has enjoyed has not been that in which the citizens have taken pride nor has it encouraged an awareness of what is good in our town among those beyond our borders.

The truth is that Newmarket is rapidly becoming "just another town", a tendency which even the hockey fans can no longer discourage.

Aurora has its horseshow, Richmond Hill its fair, Midland has its history and Brampton its music festival. Towns which come quickly to mind are invariably those associated with some circumstance of nature or initiative of their citizens which set them apart from other towns in the tourist guides. Newmarket might bear its indifferent prestige with equinaminty; the loss of the business it could attract by being or offering something different is not so easily accepted.

What makes indifference to the advantages that acrue horseshows and fairs, festivals and history, so difficult to ignore is that Newmarket possesses the talent, the history and the geographical situation which, if properly developed, could make Newmarket attractive to others the breadth of the land.

II The Talent

Newmarket abounds in musical talent. It supports a brass band, a trumpet band and an orchestra. It has had a popular choral group. Its schools encourage music, and the performances of out-of-town artists are well attended. Newmarket is equally encouraging to stage performances. A drama group has entered dominion festivals besides providing monthly performances with local casts. A minstrel show with local cast, author and direction packed the town hall.

Nor is Newmarket lacking in the graphic arts with the work of its residents hung in national shows as well as providing two local shows last season. Men and women who live here are known from coast to coast among artists and handicraft people. There is an enthusiastic handicraft group among the women as well as numerous individual talents.

Newmarket is an agricultural centre. It has become the permanent location of the county seed fair and bacon show. With the county agricultural office here, it is the logical location for numerous agricultural meetings. Its horticultural society is one of the larger societies in the province; several members have gained prominence outside Newmarket by the quality of their work.

Newmarket is situated in the centre of an historically rich area. Sharon Temple, surely one of the essentially native developments, is within a few miles. One of the most famous roads of Canadian history passes our western boundary. The area has a strong attraction for members of the Society of Friends and for students of the growth of responsible government in Canada. Time has not removed all landmarks, nor dimmed all memories; there is still much to be seen and heard by the traveller.

The location of four head offices here has given Newmarket's name a certain currency in business circles just as Pickering College has associated Newmarket's name with education and religious matters. Our situation on the route to the lake has made Newmarket familiar to thousands of travellers and the proximity of the lake resorts gives us a huge audience for whatever we attempt if we want it.

III The Advantages

From time to time, Newmarket's blessings are counted publicly. There is the seed fair, and the stage shows, the art and handicraft exhibitions, the band tattoo and the horticultural exhibition. There is the Newmarket Veterans' Association pilgrimage in June. But they have little more than local or special interest, attract few others than those from Newmarket and its immediate district. Individually, they bring little publicity to Newmarket; collectively they represent a sum of local endeavor which if properly encouraged, would make Newmarket synonymous with accomplishment throughout the province—indeed, if the effort was made—throughout the dominion.

But why bother? What profits except local pride? Pride in one's hometown would make the effort worthwhile, but there is more, much more than this to be gained. There is the attraction for the traveller and the business he represents. There is the advertisement of Newmarket for the prospective citizen or businessman. There is the encouragement for our children. There is the greater opportunity for our citizens. These are the tangible gains. Less tangible but just as important is the pride of achievement which filtering to the farthest corners of the town, would give us all the will to even greater accomplishment.

IV The Means

And how is this to be done? If there is the will, the earnest desire to encourage widespread interest in Newmarket, surely the how of it is not too difficult. Newmarket has had two major events this summer which clearly indicate possible methods of creating for Newmarket something fresh and vigorous.

The first was the gladiolus show which this year took an initial step toward new achievement with the addition to it of an exhibition of merchandise, art and craft. Such was the enthusiasm of those who participated in the show, or visited it, that there is little doubt that next year will see it greatly expanded.

And then last Saturday, there was the band tattoo, sponsored by the Newmarket Trumpet Band. Again, such was the success of the tattoo that the sponsors are planning now for a repeat performance on a different date when they have been assured of at least 25 contesting bands. Here is another possibility, in its infancy now, but capable of developing into a major attraction to Newmarket.

Is it not possible that the tattoo might expand into an annual festival, not only for trumpet bands, but for all forms of musicianship. Could not our dramatic talent be interested, and the conception further enlarged? And does not the success of the gladiolus show suggest the beginnings of a commercial, art and handicraft exhibition attracting county-wide entries? Here are two organizations which have made a start. There have been and will be others.

If there is realization of what can be accomplished and appreciation of the benefits of that accomplishment; if there is recognition of the high order of the talent which exists among us; if there is whole-hearted public support and not mere lip service; if there is the vision and the insight which surmounts the pettiness and small differences which arise when many are involved in an undertaking; if there is all this and the enthusiasm of accomplishment, Newmarket can become a national centre in any one of several fields,

But if we continue to hesitate, to involve ourselves in small concerns until our visions are clouded, Newmarket will remain, for all the effort of individuals and groups, the town with a narrow main street, its highway welcome sign bullet-holed and rusty.

Fellowskip Of Sharing

A short time ago, we carried in our news columns the story of a young English boy who lay in York County hospital with a fractured neck, his dreams of making a new home in a new land overshadowed by the knowledge he was helpless in strange surroundings. This boy needed help and when his plight became known, there was help for him,

Does this not strengthen faith in human nature? And are not you who read of these kindnesses encouraged to share in them, or if unable to now, encouraged to share when possible in other causes dependent upon kindness?

We have no way to reckon the worth of human kindness, "It is more blessed to give than receive" and in the giving we know this but are we aware of what our example encourages in our neighbors, or how heartening the succor of one may be to another in desperate straits but unknown to us?

A friendly word, a hard-carned dollar, a magazine, a bit of fruit; these are small enough by some of our standards but they share a common quality which surpasses all such comparisons, the quality of human kindness, the fellowship of sharing.

Office Cat reports Catnips By Ginger

According to statistics, half the eggs laid in England confrom hens who never move more than a few inches in the whole lives. Big egg executives with mass production scheme have the hens confined to wire cubicles where they are fe continually.

This "battery" system of egg laying saves a lot of laboration of the continual system.

because as the hen lays the egg, it drops down onto a wir cage, keeps on rolling down a series of runways, down, down into the cellar I suppose, where there is a collection depositable money, eggs.

To the rescue of these victims of mass production ride.

Sir Thomas Moore, M.P., who boomed forth recently the he was going to tell parliament to press the minister of agriculture to prohibit the use of the battery system. What more, he was supported by the R.S.P.C.A. (prevention cornelty to animals).

One poultry editor in reply to Sir Thomas said that those who think the system is cruel assume that a hen has the same intelligence as a human being. "That, of course, is silly," he says. "All a hen wants is to eat and drink and avoid the pecks of its neighbors. This it can do far more comfortably in a battery."

Hen experts used a practical experiment of allowing battery hens to go free. Their startling answer was that nine out of ten refuse to come out of their cubicles and 1: out of 20 of those who do, go right back in! It would appear that the hens are pretty dumb clucks.

I think the whole thing is economic and political. The English hens are victims of a new socialized state and an austerity program. Heaven knows there are not many eggs at it is over there and if the hens start complaining, where are you?

In Russia, hens are sent to the salt mines if their egg production is too low. In America though, they have rooting tooting hens who speak in terms of marginal this and marginal that and if they can't get their price, they don't lay.

The weather report in an English paper "Not a day for the seaside unless you take a raincoat and some weellies." Whoever would want to go to the seaside in a raincoat and some woolies? Imagine Betty Grable!

Dear Boss:

The hen report I have written above took a good deal of research and hard work. But that superior type of respecting can't go on much longer on these starvation wages. I simply have to have some compensation for my undying loyalty and enthusiasm for this here organization. I ask only a seven-cent weekly raise to make it a dollar. My family is starving.

We wonder just now it would work out it the tables were turned. Suppose we tarmers would say to out nessmen what produce latest subposes, "lod saip you produce out to the tarm. We, the factories, will set the price and send you a statement less charges. Lod the producer will have domined to say about the price."

suggestion to the larmer. Schange out true, there are larmers who accept and today do ousmess under this condition. These larmers who ship their investors to the packing plants are deling just what was suggested at the first of this article.

to say about the piece paid. There are truckers, who under the head of getting the tarmer a better price, encourage the tarmer to ship to the piant instead of the stock yards. And the reasons given are that the yard tees and commission are saved for the tarmer, that a farmer gets a better grade and a better price at the packing plant. The packers find themselves in a tavored position as there is no yard tee or commission at the plant. As for a better grade at the plant over the stock yard, a grader could not mark up the grade pecause when the mean board came to sell the bacon and the grade was not right it would come back on the grader.

And for one plant to pay a better price would mean that they would get all the stock. We have no fault to find with a trucker if he has some arrangement with the packer. Under the hog marketing act filed May 27, 1949, the trucker can take out a processor's license and work for the packing plant or a shipper's, or a producer's license and work for the farmer, it has been brought to the attention of the hog producers.

that some truckers are buying hogs and not giving the farmer the government premium. If you are not receiving the premium on your hogs it is your duty to report to your township hog producers' committee. If you should have so little interest that you do not know who is on that committee, you may obtain that information from the agriculture office.

We do not know how the price of hogs is set. It would seem if the majority of hogs went to the packing plants the price would be struck without any bargaining. If the majority went to the stock yard the commission men would bargain for a price. We suggested to a farmer that shipped to the plant who told how well he had done, that we could do away with the stock yard and all ship to the plants. He said no, we need the yards to have a check on the price. We have not found any farmer that would favor doing away with the yards.

It is very hard to follow the reasoning of some farmers.

They will not support the yards and want someone else to pay yard and commission fees. And yet they know the real value of competitive selling of stock. We pay condemnation insurance on all stock shipped to market. How much does this amount to a year and how much is used? We were at one time docked for horns on cattle $1.00 per head. The farmers began to ask questions and talk. This was stopped and no report was made of what was done with the funds. We think that there would not be as much fluctuation in stock prices if all buyers had to compete on the open market. Cheerio.

Foote-Notes

BY WILLIAM FOOTE

AURORA EDITOR

During the past few weeks the problem of the tannery odor has taken top municipal priority. Public interest has been especially great and the reception given the petition requesting action to eliminate the odors has been overwhelming. While the committee sponsoring the petition is small, many have rallied around and contributed liberally of time and effort to further the work of the committee and ensure that the petition reaches everyone.

There are many reasons for this all-out support of the committee and the petition. Most obvious is the nature and effect of the odor upon the individual citizen. More often than not, the odor starts as suddenly as it stops. By and large the effect is one of immediate nausea. This plays havoc with sleep and meals, and of course work.

The odor, however, has even more serious consequences. At the present time Aurora is expanding rapidly. A recent news item carried in The Newmarket Era and Express told of the tremendous number of houses and other buildings constructed in and near Aurora so far this year. Of ideal location, Aurora should attract many industries and companies in their search, so common since the war, for suburban locations for their plants.

Too, Aurora is desirable geographically as a location for an increasingly popular suburban residential area. Aesthetically pleasing and with a good business district, it is handy to both Toronto and outdoor recreational facilities.

However, so long as the tannery odor afflicts the town and the people as it does at present, expansion will be limited. Also bound to suffer are land values. An odor such as the one in question is bound to detract from the value of property. The setting may be beautiful,

Another important aspect of the problem is the tourist trade. It is to the advantage of the town to attract as many tourists each season as possible. Business generally receives a boost. Yet, who will stop for the night if they get a good whiff of our local perfume, and who will return a second time if he once gets a lungful of our "Tannery No. 5"?

There is only one answer. It is emphatically stated on the petition now being circulated. Council must face this problem, and must realize that the people of Aurora are desperate for a solution. Many solutions have been attempted, and council may feel that the problem has been hashed and re-hashed many times already to no purpose. This attitude must go by the board. The problem must be faced anew, and

The accident toll on Highway 27 took a turn for the better during the week previous to the Labor Day weekend. Only one accident, of minor nature, was reported, during that period. Credit must be given to the officers of the Ontario Provincial Police, whose unceasing vigil has done much to prevent the reoccurrence of such tragedies as those at Cemetery Hill earlier this season.

Letters to the Editor

The Editor: I would like to congratulate the Newmarket Trumpet Band on the extremely fine show they put on last weekend, with the help of the out-of-town bands. Fine work, boys, more power to you.

Not long ago the Newmarket Horticultural Society put on a very fine exhibition. It was as good as any small town can put on using all its resources. In this case the Society hardly scratched the surface, as far as getting exhibitors was concerned.

Another while back we had a fine parade put on by the Newmarket Veterans.

All of these separate shows were good, but imagine what an effort it could be if all got together and really had a show or fair. I am sure all merchants, exhibitors, artists and craftsmen in town and surrounding district would be as willing to co-operate as every other citizen. Let's plan early for 1950.

> Yours sincerely, Rudy Renzius.

Editor's note: What about this? We believe Mr. Renzius speaks for a good many people in his letter. Newmarket is rich in talent. It is obvious that if all brought together, Newmarket would have a showing second to none. Let us hear from others on this. It is the weight of public encouragement which brings these suggestions to fruition.

Weekly Garden-Graph

Grapes should be handled as little as possible during picking and storing, since the slightest bruise or break in the outer skin may set up decay. If one injured fruit is permitted to come in contact with other sound fruits in storage, all may become affected.

To protect the ripening fruit from birds and insects many home gardeners resort to covering each full bunch of grapes with a paper bag, as shown in the accompanying Garden Graph. The bag should be tied at the top and the bottom corners snipped off to allow any rain water that may seep into the bag to drain away.

If, after waiting anxiously for your grapes to come in bearing, you find that many of the fruits are shrivelled and "mum-, miffied" it is most likely that it is the result of blackrot.

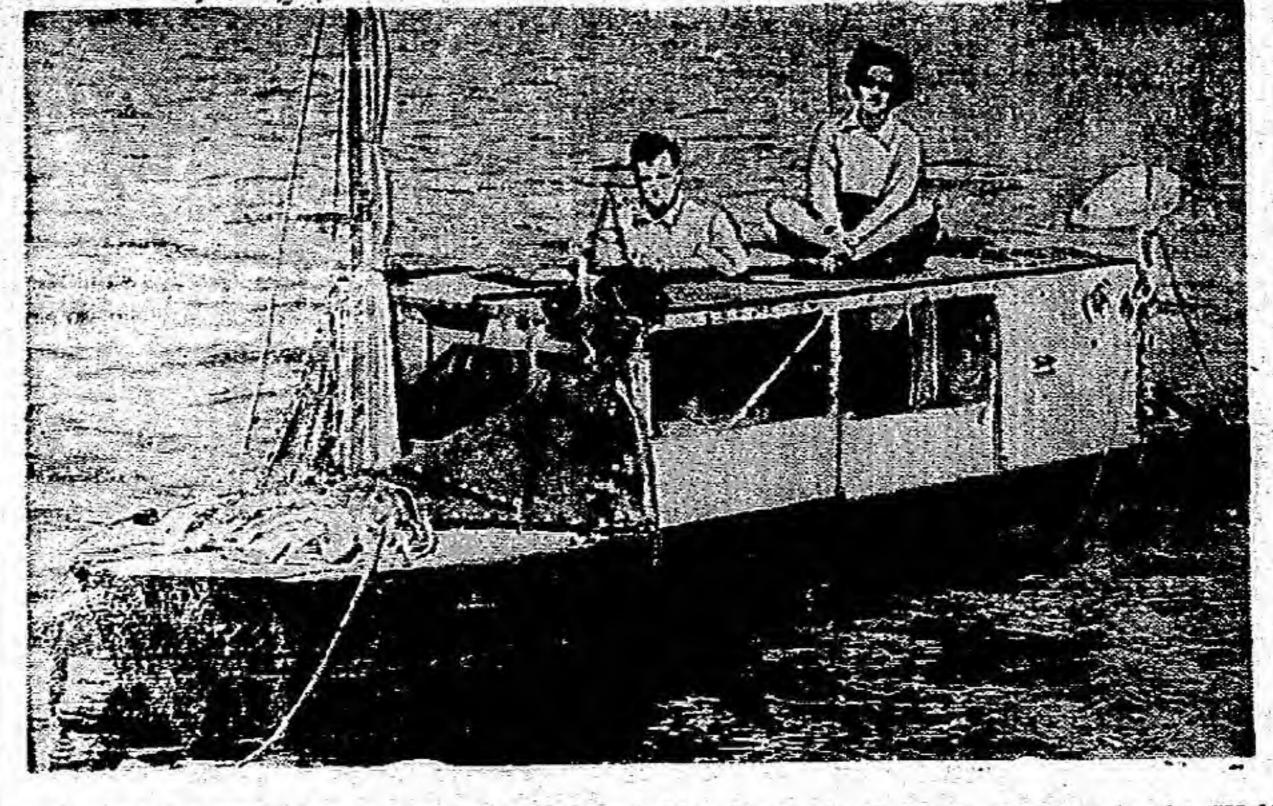

Black rot is the most destructive fungus disease of grapes. It directly attacks and destroys the berries as well as causing tell-tale spotting of the leaves. Remove all infected berries this fall and burn them. Next spring spray the vines well with Bordeau mixture.

The best way to handle grapes in gathering them for storage is by the main stem, as illustrated, and there are several ways to store them for home use. A good method is to lay them in a single layer on clean, soft hay on a shelf. Do not crowd them and examine them at intervals so that any rotting berries can be removed.

DEPARTMENT HIGHWAYS ONTARIO

The "Pony" that replaces a Team

W/ITH the introduction of the "Pony" W tractor, Massey-Harris extended the advantages of power farming to practically everyone who makes his living from the soil. There are thousands of farmers and market gardeners whose acreage does not justify the investment in large-size tractor equipment. Such men were barred from the use of power machinery until the "Pony" came into the picture. Today, it is helping them to increase their farm output, reduce production costs, and eliminate old-fashioned drudgery.

The "Pony" is an outstanding example of the farm-minded engineering that lies behind every Massey-Harris machine. In designing the "Pony", Massey-Harris engineers were not content merely to build a small-size lowcost tractor. They studied the kinds of work that a small tractor would have to do, in practical farm use, to give satisfaction to its owner ... and they calculated the requirements of power, traction, weight, and endurance that such work would call for. As a result, the Massey-Harris "Pony" out-weighs, out-pulls, and out-works every other tractor in its class. It will do more work than a team, and much more work than a little walk-behind tractor.

Going further, Massey-Harris engineers designed an assortment of quick-mounted tools for the "Pony" . . . exactly the right size to yield the maximum amount of finished work per hour of time and per gallon of gasoline. With these tools, the "Pony" not only does more work than a team, but does it better, faster and cheaper.

nature and good neighbors, is producing the most intelligent, best balanced group of young people Canada has ever known. With a superior sense of value these young people are preserving and modernizing their cultural inheritance. They are co-operating through their organizations in reviving and preserving the folk dances, music and social customs of the cultures which make Canada, adding these to the best of modern recreation. In their community halls and county centres they are enjoying the friendship of neighbors who may be many miles removed from them but have been made near neighbors by common interests and modern transportation. The ignorance which impels people, who have not value the material symbols of prosperity above the solid satisfactions of constructive living, does not mar rural social gatherings with the snobbery which marks the social life of those whose pretensions are their only claim to The genuine values of real worth, true education and achievement are the recognized marks of merit in today's rural Canadian culture. ONE THING AND ANOTHER

In a year when your poor flowers looked at you with dirty faces and you could do nothing about it, it was a joy to see the gardens which Sir Harry Oakes' munificence made possible at Niagara. Sheltered sunny and serene they lay the morning we saw them and as Mrs. Evans and I agreed, they looked far more like the rich rugs of some oriental potentate than they did like living things. One felt that if a hand touched them, the soft pile of a rich rug would lie fluffily under that hand. And the tree roses, exquisite in color, and sitting so proudly aloft, glowed like living jewels in their green settings. Before bidding farewell to the Falls, we visited the group of statuary which meets you as you enter and he said he had been at it three weeks now! He also said that this was not the bloomiest time-we should be there when the crysanthemums were in their glory. But the palms towered over us and colorful blossoms surrounded us and who were we to complain? We drove home through towns and villages nestling in their orchards with people in trees picking, people in sheds packing and people outside loading into the trucks that would carry their lovely burdens far and near. We reached Toronto in the rush hour. This is the time when drivers assume a rush hour expression . . . a set look of "I've got to get there someway or other", and when you are one of the seemingly enextricable tangle of cars, trucks, street cars, bicycles, pedestrians and motorcycles, it's a grand thing to be able as we were to sit back and put implicit faith in your driver and to arrive at a restaurant ready for a good meal. Then a drive home through the lovely Canadian twilight, to be greeted with reproachful mews by two and a half cats who, in no uncertain terms, told us that they lost their appetites when we left, and this was borne out by the fact that most of their food was untouched, but whenever they saw us they rushed to their plates and gobbled up their food and demanded more. Beauty has entered a new phase with Daffy-the jealous stage. She lures Daffy outside and hides him then forgetsor pretends to forget-him and goes mourning through the house hunting him. However, he always turns up and is learning to fetch and carry a wee ball. He's an adorable kitten. Labor Day Thoughts It is a grand thing to think that labor, however tardily and painfully, is coming into its own and to think that in a time when we hear that Czechoslovacia is going to eliminate all church holy days from its calendar, we keep our holy days with an ever-growing reverence and appreciation and added to these, is a day which the people who work with their hands can call their own. A nation has taken a great step forward when labor has achieved dignity and a place in the sun. The sun shines alike on those who labor with their heads and with their hands and each has his place in the social economy of a nation. The only people for whom a nation has no room are those who, when able, contribute neither brains nor brawn.

We are a young nation with much to learn, but we are learning, that if our land is to prosper, labor and management must both be willing to concede the fact that each must respect the other's rights-that is democracy!

IT'S A Woman's World

BY CAROLINE E. ION

The current number one question seems to be: "Have you seen the Ex?" and judging from the number of townspeople we met there on Wednesday, we'd hazard the guess that there are very few in town who can't answer that question in the affirmative. Listening to the band concert; waiting in line to view the Hope diamond; filling in the coupon for a free Persian lamb coat; watching the women's five-mile swim . . . everywhere we ran into Newmarket-ites. Some of these we hadn't even seen since last spring.

As the day advanced some of the smiles became a trifle worn, but everyone appeared to still be having fun. We met cousins from Hamilton, a school friend from Nova Scotia and oh, yes, some people from Newmarket. When they say that the Ex is first in everything, they mean it . . . whether it is renewing acquaintances or the atomic display.

Newmarket was in the limelight that same day at the directors' luncheon for Ontario women at the C.N.E. when seven local ladies accepted Kate Aiken's invitation and attended. Instead of making speeches, the representative from each town told of her community in eight lines of verse. Doing the job for our town (and very nicely, too), was Mrs. M. B. Seldon. Informal and friendly from the beginning the gathering welcomed every opportunity for merriment.

As a special guest, Alphie Myhre, who had arrived that morning for the old-time fiddlers' contest from Kingman, Alta., played several selections. Alphie who had never travelled on a train before in his entire 11 years took all the special catering and attention with a big grin. Dressed to the queen's taste in western cowboy style, he was accompanied on his fiddle by Horace at the grand piano. We never did learn what Horace's surname was but he had a wonderful time running out to the kitchen between numbers for some more lunch. Acknowledging his bows he would sip appreciatively at his coffee.

Later we were pleased to learn that Alphie had taken second place in the old-time fiddlers' contest. He had had no music lessons and had been "fiddling" for under three years. Each time we shall hear, "Over the Waves", there will appear the picture of a happy youngster, toe tapping time to his music, playing for his lunch and enjoying every moment of it. That $10,000 Suit

To liven matters further, models from the High Style fashion show were presented. On a very striking blonde, the much talked about $10,000 suit was modelled for our close inspection. In a simpler styling and one which would be more appropriate to the average woman was an attractively tailored suit in medium blue with a wine thread. Accenting this color note were the accessories of wine. The hat, one of this fall's head-hugging types, was made entirely of feathers, wine and the same shade of blue as the suit. It was a lovely ensemble. The motif of the C.N.E. Princess Gates was the inspiration of another chapeau. It was very striking. Rather on the type of an all white skull cap, it had two large white wings affixed above the ears of the wearer (to the hat not the model). It resembled the headgear associated with Hermes, and would have warranted more than a raised eyebrow from the long suffering males of the species.

One of the speakers at the luncheon in whom we were particularly interested was Mrs. Armstrong Collins who spoke for the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. She has visited the local club on two occasions and has been very generous with her assistance with many of the newly organized clubs. Speaking of the quarter million women who make up the membership of the International club in 25 countries, Mrs. Collins said that they were "neither fiery feminists nor insufferable suffragettes". Inspect Handicrafts

Following the luncheon we took the opportunity to visit the Canadian Handicraft Guild room in the Women's building. Here we could have stayed for hours, but in the short time available inspected all the various handicraft arts exhibited there. The women demonstrating these arts were answering all the questions asked. There we re-met Mrs. Martha Kidd, Scarboro, who gave the lectures in Newmarket on linoleum block printing in the fall of 1947. She was surrounded with a group of interested watchers, but took time for a brief chat. In the ceramics booth two other ladies were busily engaged in making some delicate flowers which would adorn ashtrays, also hand-made.

An exhibit which was completely new to us was that of the painting of Ukrainian Easter eggs. It was fascinating to watch the worker, a Mrs. O. Hamara, who was born in Canada of Ukrainian parents, work on the eggs and at the same time explain their significance. It was a wonderful day, exhausting, but definitely enjoyable.

School bells ringing. Summer just about finished. At present rate, North York Softball finals will be about ready for attention when the snow flies. Vets are a game down in the semi-final set with Woodbridge. It goes three out five by the way. But don't let that first game loss worry you unduly. Vets have been further behind the eight ball in years past, but the plateware came home with them. This year looks like a tougher grind. Pitching burden will fall on Bill VanZant completely. "Joint" McComb departs for St. Louis Flyers hockey training camp this Sunday. Behind Bill, Mac's pack don't play, or at least haven't been playing, heads-up-ball. They'll need to go right to work smartly if the revamped, rejuvenated Woodbridgers are to be put on the sidelines. In the other semifinal bracket, Aurora and Langstaff are going at it hammer and tong. Aurora took first at Schomberg. Second a draw six all at Langstaff.

This is our year. Vets set sail on the O.A.S.A. trail this week. Twice previously they bucked New Toronto in round one and that was the end of it. They go to Goodyear Field, in fact by press time, barring rain, will have one game run off. The second goes Saturday afternoon at four chimes, S.S. diamond here. What chances of spending the Lakeshores? Crystal ball says this is the year. Three pitchers ready, "Joint" Mc-Comb, Bill VanZant and Bill Bowen. Strongest hitting crew ever to tie into the apple in a Vets monkey suit. All "Ceegars" McDonald and his co-stalwart Ed Tupling have to do is pull the right strings and "Lefty" Nattawary and company will have more worries than they can possibly handle.

Get ready for the big blows: Deciders in both semi-final sets of the Lake Simcoe softball merry-go-round up for decision this week. League governors have had a fairly easy time of it this year, that is until the play-offs. Their biggest decision to make is on Mount Albert's protest of the Willow Beach first win. Ross Chapman and his board go along with umpire Bill Hibbitt's decision on the play. If they had ruled otherwise the jolly old umps wouldn't have a friend in the world except their seeing-eye dogs. Lake Simcoe league has been fortunate in having a four-man slate to call 'em this year. That's Bill Hibbitt, Bob Peters, Barney Revill and lately Cec Carp-

Frank Hollingsworth, coach, manager, keeper of equipment, secretary and what have you, finds Bowmanville bantams, supposed next opposition, have folded. Next opponent is Cardinal. eastern Ontario champs. Frank has sent along three suggested dates with the opening game here. Then, too, there is the possibility the teams will agree on a neutral site at the halfway mark. They'll settle their differences sudden-death and a win by the local nine would just about put them into the Ontario finals. Watch for the date if a game should come here. The kids need your support and nothing will stop them.

Haskett's hash. Midland ladies put our conquerors, Brampton Combines, out of the P.W.S.U. playdowns running the string out to three games, Midland winning 7-5 in Brampton, Brampton returning the compliment up north 5-3 with Midland taking the decider 8-4. North York Lions, last place finishers in the North York softball race, gave a good account of themselves in the C.N.E. tournament. Won their first but lost their second game. They were strengthened with Wanless League players from the team showing hereabouts. Aurora juveniles passed out of the O.B.A. playdowns Saturday losing two straight to Bowmanville. Missed last week telling you about fourth Newmarketer with the Aurorans, that's Ted Taylor. Played the outfield Saturday. Found the range for two hits to be next in line to Jerry Hugo who had three.

Cool weather note. A problem confronting Johnnie Hines and Metropolitan Hockey League directors will be whether to enlarge the league or stay put. Stouffville wants to come in and the rumor persists that Richmond Hill won't shy away from a bid. Frank Courtney and the ladies' team will seek a second victory in the Barrie and district championship this week. The skipper hopes to line-up the third game for attention here Friday.
